Adams who captures the detail of the pieces' real life counterparts.

Thonet Bentwood

Chair
1859

Designed by Michael Thonet (1796-1871) this chair shows off his technique of softening wood with steam and molding it for chair components. The curvaceous but open and uncluttered look to this chair is prescient of 20th century modernism. It is often referred to as the "bistro chair" and is one of the most popular chair designs of all time.

Sgabello Chair/Italy

Sgabello is an Italian term for a specific type of backstool typical of the Italian Renaissance. They generally have an octagonal seat with a long back splat which was often carved with a family's imprese or emblem drawn from its coat-of-arms. They would often be placed in hallways; their primary purpose was not lounging comfort.

It was developed by two employees of Thomas Edison, first used in 1890, and used by more than 25 states throughout the 20th century. The Sutherland table was named for Harriet, Duchess of Sutherland (1806-1868) Queen Victoria's Mistress of the Robes. It is a type of gate-leg table characterized by a narrow center that when folded can be stored against a wall without taking up much space. President's Chairs

The Resolute Desk

The Resolute desk is a large, nineteenth-century partners' desk often chosen by presidents of the United States for use in the White House as the Oval Office desk. It was a gift from Queen Victoria to President Rutherford B. Hayes in 1880 and was built from the timbers of the British arctic exploration ship Resolute. Franklin Roosevelt had a small door built for the gap to prevent people from seeing his wheelchair. Many presidents since Hayes have used the desk at various locations in the White House, but it was Jackie Kennedy who first brought the desk into the Oval Office in 1961 for President John F. Kennedy.

DOLLHOUSE LIGHTING WITH CIR-KIT CONCEPTS

INSTRUCTION VIDEO

In this video we introduce our new color-coded tapewire and describe how its usehelps in making an error-free wiring system. Computer animation is used extensively as an aid to understanding basic wiring concepts and in the development of a house wiring diagram.

Filmed and produced by a professional film studio it reflects the high standards and dedication to excellence that have become a hallmark of the Cir-Kit Concept's name.

You'll see how a dollhouse is wired in stages and how easily such accessories as outlets, switches, sconces and chandeliers may be installed even after wallpapering for a completely finished look.

This is a must-see video for anyone wiring a dollhouse, even if you're a wiring pro. Let it be your first step to-wards creating a lighted masterpiece.

BITS

B. C. E.

B. CK1025-3 – Sold By Each
The No. 66 wire-size bit is used principally for making the proper size hole for "fixture" and "circuit" type wires. Measures .033" in diameter

C. CK1025-2 – Sold By Each
The 1/32" bit provides the proper size hole for wall sconce wires. This hole allows the pulling of sconce wires through a wall and electrically connecting them into a conductive tape run on the opposite side of a wall.
*The wires are inserted into copper strip holes made with either a push pin or No. 70 bit.

E. CK1025-1 – Sold By Each
The No. 75 bit allows drilling of small .021" holes at tape juncture points for easy insertion of ⅛" brads in hardwood or Masonite structures. (May also be used for outlet and switch nails.) The drilling of holes simplifies brad installation and assures a tight electrical fit between the brad and copper strip.

* These tiny bits are helpful aids for installing any of the wiring and lighting fixtures.
* Their use greatly enhances and simplify installation in all types of wood.

 All bits may be used with a ¼"electric drill

Transformers

Our plug-in transformers provide a safe and convenient AC power source for any dollhouse or miniature room. All Cir-Kit Concepts' transformers are designed to plug directly into a powered outlet, thus eliminating the need of building a special transformer enclosure within the dollhouse.

The most popular versions contain a built-in thermal circuit breaker making them virtually burn-out proof. In the event of an overload or short, the thermal breaker simply opens and removes voltage until the unit cools. After cooling, the breaker resets itself and automatically reapplies voltage to the output.

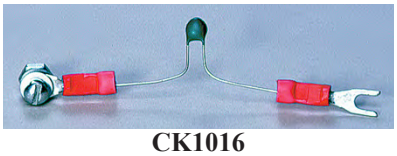
Voltage Regulator

VOLTAGE REGULATOR (NOW WITH TERMINALS)



CK1016
Transformer Lead In Wire
With Switch

The Cir-Kit Concepts' voltage regulator is a remarkable and innovative device which will greatly extend the life expectancy of any 12-volt bulb. The most significant restriction to long bulb life is the presence of excessive operating voltages. A relatively small increase in voltage may reduce a bulb's life by a factor of ten or more. Most commercial transformers start with a higher voltage at no load and typically provide the stated output voltage when supplying the rated output wattage. As would be experienced with any similar tran former, the Cir-Kit Concepts' transformers present voltages between 13 and 14 volts when lightly loaded. Only when loaded with ten or more bulbs can an acceptable output voltage be realized. To obtain this voltage when using 1 to 9 bulbs, a device such as the Cir-Kit Concepts' voltage regulator is recommended. This unique device automatically changes value as bulbs are added or subtracted from the system, thus maintaining a proper voltage across the connected bulbs. The automatic regulation feature allows this one simple device to take the place of several discrete resistors which would otherwise be required to obtain similar results. Equipped with terminal connectors; the lead-wire need not be cut as before. Detailed instructions included.
Max. current rating of 540 ma.

Not required:
- When 10 bulbs or more are installed.
- For 14 or 16-volt bulbs.
- During construction when fewer than 10 bulbs may be temporarily in place.

ADAPTER CORDS

These cords have been developed primarily for those instances where running power by wire may be more convenient than running it with tape; for example, where two miniature rooms are to be electrically connected together and work from one transformer. Another use might be between the top floor of a dollhouse and a removable roof or attic section. Headless brass pins are supplied with the CK1028 and CK1028-1 cords and are pounded into the tape runs to be joined. The plugs are then plugged into the pins to establish the interconnection.

The connecting cords are 18" long and illustrated instructions are provided with each package.

TAPEWIRE

Double conductor tapewire is the “heart” of all Cir-Kit wiring systems.

From its introduction in 1976 to the present it has been the predominant method of dollhouse wiring. Its use creates a printed circuit type layout and completely eliminates the congested wiring found in conventional systems. A super strong adhesive, exposed by the removal of a peel away paper carrier, ensures a secure grip on any surface.

Color coding of the copper foils greatly simplifies the making of corners during the wiring process. Brass brads are installed only at the blue-to-blue and copper-to-copper overlap points, eliminating short circuits.

Another problem that occurs with other, lesser quality brands of tapewire is “bubbling”. As time passes, the transparent overlay begins to buckle that eventually show through the wallpaper or paint coverings. Using a special manufacturing process, Cir-Kit Concepts has completely eliminated this problem. A tape run made today will appear as straight and true in a year as the day it was laid. The Cir-Kit Concepts’ name is also embossed on the natural copper foil to identify it as the one and only Cir-Kit Concepts’ tapewire product.

The main body of the tape is ⅜" wide with a total thickness of approximately .005". The copper foils will carry up to 5 amperes of continuous current.

Eyelets, Brads & Nails

SMALL HOLLOW EYELETS

These hollow eyelets provide an easy and convenient alternative to the "brass bradding" of tape runs. Their larger size and ease of handling greatly simplifies the electrical connection process. They may be used as a substitute for ⅛" brass brads in almost all applications. To install, first make a starter hole using either our No. 55 drill bit or the CK1044 Awl. Next, place the eyelet in the hole and push in for a quick and absolutely positive electrical connection. Eyelets are brass and measure approximately ⅛" long with an inside diameter of .044" and outside diameter of .056". Packaged in quantities of 20, 100 and 110. Instructions included in each package.

Fireplace Units

ULTIMATE FLICKERING FIREPLACE UNIT

The CK0871 Ultimate Flickering Fireplace Unit has been designed to provide the most realistic flickering fire effects available anywhere. Its features create a natural, true-to-life fireplace flicker and not the usual on/off operation. In other words, no more flashing, just a gentle realistic flicker to put warmth and glow into your fireplace and lights. The unit comes with four bulbs; three flicker and one constant. Each flicker bulb is controlled by a separate electronic circuit, thus creating its own independent flash rate. The supplied bulb can be installed either in the supplied coal insert or used separately in an existing fireplace.

- The included bulbs are oversize to provide the maximum possible light output and are attached with screws for easy removal and replacement; Not soldered in place.
- Operates from dollhouse power (either 12VAC or 12VDC) and is guaranteed not to flicker other dollhouse lights.
- Small circuit board size (1"W x 1¼"L x ¾"H) allows easy concealment.
- Complete installation and operation instructions are included with each package..

GOW/GOR LIGHT BULBS

These high quality bulbs are excellent for illuminating any part of a dollhouse or miniature room. Bulb wires may be attached to our miniature plugs or directly bradded into tape runs with ⅛" brass brads.

The 12-volt bulbs should be used in locations where bright illumination is necessary and the 16-volt bulbs in areas where a soft, non-glaring light is preferred. The grain-of-rice (GOR) bulbs are ideal for those applications where minimum bulb size is desirable.

The grain-of-wheat (GOW) bulb measures approximately ⅛" in diameter and the GOR bulb approximately 3/32". These bulbs are made with some of the smallest insulated wires available. Great attention has also been given to making the wire connections at the base of the bulb as unnoticeable as possible.

The CK1020 series of 1.5 volt bulbs may be used as is across a CK1009G transformer or as replacement bulbs for Christmas tree strings. The CK1010-18 series of 3.0 volt bulbs may be used as replacement bulbs for any 3.0 volt lighting fixture.

 How to apply asphalt roofing *****

You will need:

- sharp scissors
- a tacky wood glue (or hot glue gun)
- a good eye for symmetry

1.) Lay the first row upside down flush along the bottom row of your roofing area.

2.) With the left side of your strip, and cut off any excess.

3.) Lay the second row parallel to it and translated up by about half an inch, to line up the top of the tab slot with thetop of the previous row.

The edge of the shingle strip should line up with the edge of the roof, but likely only for this row.

4.) Lay the third row staggered over to the left by about half a shingle, lined up the same way, with a small section of the strip overhanging the roof.

Cut this section off, trimmed to the roof edge.

5.) Lay the fourth row so that it is lined up with the second row's shingles as exactly as possible, and then the fifth row lined up with the third, and so on.

Optional: For a sturdier roof bond, use staples to secure the strip, on sections which will be covered by the next row.

6.) When nearing the roof peak, cut a strip to meet flush with the edge if necessary.

Make sure the opposite side of the roof is finished the same way before continuing.

7.) To cap the roof, cut off single squares, fold them evenly in half, and glue them overlapping the previous shingle by ¼“ along the roof peak.

Optional: For a neat, pressed look to your freshly glued shingles, lay a board on top and apply weight until the glue dries

The Lovelia Rug Collection

Exciting News!!

Aztec Imports has just come into the possession of a quantity of Heirloom dollhouse rugs that have been languishing in a warehouse on the east coast for 10 years. You may recall seeing these rugs in the market years ago. Lovelia Albright went to Europe to design these rugs with 5th and 6th generation Atiliers. Many were woven on 100 year old looms and most are 100% wool. Some are 100% cotton(the thin Gobelin style that were woven on old Jacquard looms used for tapestries). Some were woven in Belgium from synthetic fibre to get the detail exact. The line was called "The Lovelia Collection" and it was distributed by Dee's Delights, Gerald Shanin Company, and Foley and Robinson. We are able to offer them to you at THE SAME PRICE THAT THEY WERE TEN YEARS AGO.
We have from a few pieces to several hundred pieces of each style in stock.

Once these are gone they cannot be replaced.

HISTORIC WALLCOVERINGS BY BIRGE. This wallpaper is from an old Colonial home in Scarsdale, NY. A careful study shows that this is one of the purest early French type and takes us back to that time when Marie Antoinette refused to accept the bold and garish styles set by Madam de Pompadour and was influential in creating the refined and delicate style of Louis XVI.

Elizabethan

English 1850 During this period English furniture, in the domestic setting, was a symbol of status and wealth; it was the decoration of the furniture that made furniture valuable. Turned baluster legs, square spreader bars, and recessed carvings on the sides and front are the only decorations on this simple table built to be sturdy and functional. The front panel opens down to create an enclosed storage space under the table top in place of an under the table shelf. The sides of the table fold down so that the table can be stored in a small space. Available in a walnut finish.

Side Chair with Leather

Very similar in style to the popular 1800 the Farthingale chair (or back stool), which was created without arms to accommodate the ladies large skirts, and its small, square back and seat were covered with leather stretched across it, trimmed in nailheads up until this time although simple, loose "squab" cushions were still predominant. The back stool came to be known as "an upholsterers' chair,"The legs on this chair are simple knob turnings and the spreader bars are straight.

Spanish Style

Spanish furniture was much heavier than Italian or French and during the 17th Century trestle supports were used more than legs on benches and stools. Often they would have iron braces to strengthen the item and for decorative purposes. This exquisite table has a rectangular top with a hand carved banding abound all sides. The apron is decorated with a floral design carving and in each corner a small carved bracket has been incorporated under the table top. The tall banded lye shaped trestle ends supporting the table sit on ball and claw feet. A caved medallion joins the two cyma curves that form the lye shape and the faux metal iron brace acts as a spreader bar between the trestle ends. Available in a walnut finish.

Spanish Refectory

During the 16th century, Spanish design was a unique blend of Renaissance and Moorish design. In this table (or escritorio) we see how the two styles have been combined with a simple, square edged, plank table top and heavy carving on the table skirt and drawer fronts. Referred to as a long table, a term that supersedes the name refractory table which once applied to a table of this size but was changed C 1540 after the abolishment of the monasteries during the reformation, is supported on ring turned spindle legs with spreader bas just above floor level. The four drawer fronts are decorated with a leaf carving and have ring style drawer pulls. A similar carving has been repeated on the remaining thee sides of the table apron. Available in a walnut finish.

Carving was the main ornamentation of the Italian Renaissance furniture. Perfectly proportioned, exquisitely detailed, the legs on this cabinet are gunbarrel turned and the carved ornament consists mainly of faceted lozenge shapes. The back legs are plain rectangular characteristic even on extemely ornate pieces of furniture c1670.The idea that the description Court has royal connotations is almost certainly wrong the word court is French for short and refers to the low height of the cabinet. The spreader bar at the bottom and sides of the cabinet are fluted as is the font edge of the middle shelf. The sides of the top section are enclosed by three spindals on either side.The centre Baluster is decorated under the middle shelf with a finial.
Available in a walnut finish.
